Life Skill “a group of psychosocial competencies and interpersonal skills that help people make informed decisions, solve problems, think critically and creatively, communicate effectively, build healthy relationships, empathize with others, and cope with and manage their lives in a healthy and productive manner. Life skills may be directed toward personal actions or actions toward others, as well as toward actions to change the surrounding environment to make it conducive to health.” according to World Health Organization (WHO). Bearing the WHO definition in mind, the Basic Life Skills curriculum offers youth the emotional, social and intellectual tools needed to achieve success in life – on a personal level, an interpersonal level, and within their community and work places.

Life skills prepares students physically and mentally for the integration of their physical, psychological and social faculties so that they can live in harmony with oneself and with those around. The purpose of Life Skill programmes is to empower them to lead a stress free life with the ability to balance work and other personal activities without any difficulty.
